Dear Professor Lederberg,

With some delay, for which I apologise, I write to thank you on behalf of the Medical Society of WHO for the remarkable talk you gave at the Annual Dinner last month. The ethical and intellectual problems that you posed were most thought-provoking and I know that everyone immensely enjoyed hearing and meeting you.

Now that you are an honorary member of the Society we shall keep you informed of our activities and hopefully will meet you whenever you can spare the time on your trips to Geneva.

I had a letter from another honorary member of the Society who, as you will see from the attached copy, was sorry to have missed your talk. I ^{do} not know of your ties with my friend Bill Gibson to whose Faculty I am attached in Vancouver. I have his book on the "Creative Minds in Medicine" and will look up again his remarks about you with re-newed interest.

On your return home I am sure you found your baby had grown ever so fast and I hope we shall have the pleasure of meeting you again.

With kindest personal regards.

Yours sincerely,

Dr S.W.A. Gunn
President of the Medical Society, WHO
